3rd BIENNIAL NURSING & MIDWIFERY RESEARCH CONFERENCE

Theme:
"Conquering new frontiers in health care delivery through Nursing and Midwifery Research"

Date: August 10 & 11, 2017
Venue: Knutsford Court Hotel

Keynote Speaker
Prof. Carol Baxter, CBE
CBE Honorary Professor

Conference Overview

The Caribbean School of Nursing (CSON) at UTech is now the largest multi-disciplinary School of Nursing in Jamaica. As the new home of the alumni of the Kingston School of Nursing, the Jamaican government has transferred General Nursing, Midwifery, Critical Care and Nurse Anaesthesist courses to our University.

Therefore, this year our third biennial nursing conference will be bigger and grander event as we will embrace all of our nursing programmes under the theme "Conquering new frontiers in health care delivery through nursing and midwifery research"

Conference Aims:

1. promote the use of evidence-based health care delivery as the benchmark for quality patient care.

2. provide an interactive forum in which health professionals are able to disseminate their research findings and enable collaborative partnerships.

3. stimulate potential investigators to commence research and build capacity among fledging researchers and explore .

4. reinforce the need for nurses and midwives to participate in conducting research and in using consumers to justify their practice .

Other Speakers include:

Dr. Calvin R. Moorley, RN, PhD
Associate Professor for Nursing Research & Diversity in Care School of Health and Social Care/ Adult Nursing & Midwifery Studies, London South Bank University

Dr. Gerti E. Heider, PhD, ANP, GNP-BC
